7. Course Aims:

This course aims to:

- Further develop students' ability to critically evaluate their practice in relation to recent design issues within historical, critical and theoretical fields of enquiry within interior design contexts;
- Enable students to begin to resolve their practice on the basis of critical re-appraisal;
- Develop students' abilities to present their work to a professional standard;
- Promote a level of creativity, originality and initiative in response to critical, theoretical and historical issues surrounding the field of interior design;
- Develop the ability to identify and formulate new critical insights into established interior design practice;
- Foster further skills and confidence in the preparation and presentation, both written and oral, of research-based critical analysis.

8. Intended Learning Outcomes of Course:

At the end of the course, each student should have the ability to demonstrate and/or work with:

- An understanding of the critical balance between research and practice in the planning of a significant project within design studio practice;
- The intellectual and creative abilities necessary to identify and characterise problems and issues arising from historical and theoretical aspects of practice.

Each student should have the ability to:

- Demonstrate a high level of originality and creativity in the development of knowledge and practice;
- Develop original and informed responses to problems and issues arising from critical analysis;
- Translate the principles of research to a written topic relevant to his/her own studio practice;
- Apply a significant range of the skills and techniques associated with current developments in design;
- Work constructively with others in a variety of educational, institutional and professional situations;
- Respond in an informed manner to the views and positions of others;
- Use a range of skills, techniques and media to communicate with peers and staff via seminar presentations.

9. Indicative Content:

This course will speculate on the nature of imagined, re-imagined, re-purposed and/or recycled space. Building on the contextual analysis undertaken at Stage 1, it will examine spatial concerns articulated via experiential dialogue, extended methods of representation and definitions of transience and longevity. It will combine technological analysis and description of place via digital means with analysis of phenomenological aspects linked to enclosed space and its uses, both actual and potential.

10.1 Please describe the Summative Assessment arrangements:

Students on this course will be assessed against the following criteria:

- A detailed knowledge of appropriate processes applied to a written Interior Design research proposal.
- A significant range of core skills, techniques and practices associated with interior design techniques and strategies.
- Demonstrate an understanding of interior design through the presentation of suitable practical and theoretical project work.
- Further group working skills at a strategic level through the completion of practical projects
- Develop an in-depth knowledge of the social, technological and industrial drivers of design practices in contemporary culture.
- Recognise, understand and manage effectively different technical and creative approaches to the process of design.
- Apply a knowledge and understanding of design and creativity through the completion of set and elective projects
