Learning Resources: Guide to Reprographic Services for Library Special Collections, Archives and Museum Collections

Copies of material held in GSA's historical collections can be provided to researchers subject to the following regulations and charges:

Orders for copies are accepted at the discretion of Learning Resources staff. Items will not be copied if the copying process will cause harm to the original. Inevitably, the quality of copies will vary according to the age and condition of the items involved. Every effort will be made to obtain the best quality copy possible whilst still ensuring the continued safety and integrity of the original.

To order copies, researchers must complete and sign a Reprographic Request and Copyright Declaration form. Once ordered, all copies must be paid for. Current charges are cited below:

All prices are inclusive of VAT. VAT is deducted from the total if the copies are ordered from outside the EU.

An additional charge for postage and packing may be added for bulk orders or special deliveries. Researchers will be advised of these costs at the time of order.

Digital Photography

Digital photographs of items in the Library Special Collections, Archives and Museum Collections may be taken by visitors with prior permission from a member of Learning Resources staff. All photographs taken by visitors are under the terms of copyright outlined in this document.

Copyright and Reproduction of Images

The above charges are for supplying copies of material for research and design use only and are supplied within the terms of the Copyright (Libraries and Archivists) (Copying of Copyright Material) Regulations 1989. Permission to use copies for commercial purposes such as publications, webpages, exhibitions, or broadcasts should be sought in writing from the Learning Resources Department by completing a Reproduction Request form. Please note that material subject to copyright law may not be published without the additional permission of the copyright owner who may or may not be Glasgow School of Art. Although guidance on tracing copyright holders may be available from Learning Resources staff, the responsibility for clearing permissions rests with the person or organisation using the image.

If permission to reproduce images is granted, the charges overleaf will be levied. The appropriate fee must be paid prior to publication. In addition the Glasgow School of Art requires a complimentary copy of the publication or a page proof of the reproduction. All material must be credited as "The Glasgow School of Art".

All images are non-exclusive and for single-use only and must be reproduced in full and not masked out, cut down, altered or defaced in any way unless prior permission has been sought.
